

Expansion of Livery Services in Anglesey

Angharad's passion is the transformation of the Sarn Frait Farm at Penmynydd

Angharad Holmes lives with her family on Sarn Frait Farm, at Penmynydd in the heart of Anglesey. Eight generations of the family have lived and farmed at Sarn Frait, which is now a 70 acre farm that has been transformed into a successful organic business.

Part of the farms grassland is now laid to accommodate Livery for both local and visiting ponies and horses; a recent development (completed in spring this year) is the conversion of a range of farm outbuildings to Livery stables to expand this part of the business further; with an equestrian retail business now also being considered.

Sarn Frait even has a history as a Coaching Inn; it was converted by Angharad's x 3 Great Grandfather to accommodate overnight visitors of the Mail Coach and reverted back to its farmhouse status after the railway was extended to Holyhead in March 1850.

A range of (Angharad) products have been developed and are increasingly stocked by Delicatessens and Farm Shops through Anglesey and Gwynedd. Angharad's brand reflects the care and commitment that has carried the family as successful farmers at Sarn Frait for so many years on Anglesey.

Sarn Frint Farm is committed to producing food of the highest standard and taste. Many of the products are home grown or home reared. All other ingredients are, as far as possible, sourced locally. Angharad's brings you exciting flavours, delicious combinations, and presents a modern twist on some old favourites. Amongst them is the award winning Penmynydd Piccalilli and Raspberry & Cassis Conserve, as well as the exotic Raspberry & Passion Fruit Jam, and seasonal jams and preserves.

You can contact Sarn Frint Farm on angharadholmes@aol.com for your product or Livery enquiries.

Menter Môn assisted the conversion of the farm buildings into Livery Stables at Sarn Faint; this through the Mônmaeth Rural Development Plan funded project made available for farming families to diversify through new products and services